C. The Rule of Proportionality shall apply which requires that unless it can be shown for which candidate any illegal vote(s) were cast, the illegal vote(s) are deducted from the whole vote of the election in proportion to the votes cast, not from the candidate having the largest number of votes; and

Sec. 3-19. - The Tribal Council during the pendency of an election challenge.

If an election appeal has been filed, the Tribal Council existing prior to the election shall continue to hold their offices until all newly elected Council Members are sworn into office. This hold-over Tribal Council shall only hear and decide issues that must be decided due to time considerations or every-day issues where inaction would adversely affect the smooth running of the Nation. All persons who file any appeals under this Ordinance shall provide an address where that person can be served personally. If that person is not at the designated address when personal service is attempted, the process server is authorized to either leave the notice with a person of suitable age or to post the notice at the address. Any and all past election ordinances, including the election ordinance passed on January 11, 1999 pursuant to Res. No. 99-07, shall be considered superseded upon the ratification and approval of the Constitution adopted by the voters of the Nation on October 19, 1999.

Except in rare cases with good cause shown as to why additional evidence should be considered, the Trial Division of the Tribal Court's review will be limited to a review of the record of the Election Board proceedings and the evidence before the Election Board at the time of its decision. Unless good cause is shown for a hearing before the Trial Division of the Tribal Court, the Court shall not hold a hearing.

C. The filing of an appeal with the Trial Division of the Tribal Court automatically stays a Special Election.
